NORC webinar July 10, 2024
“To achieve our goals of becoming an Anti-Racist Organization we need to innovate and create....We will feel bad for not getting it right the first time, we will feel bad from feeling like we let people down, we will get feedback from others that will make us feel bad. It is okay to feel bad and we need to learn how to sit in that discomfort and not avoid it. Sitting in this discomfort provides us the opportunity to grow, to learn, and to hear the voices that we need to hear. We are all guilty of avoiding this discomfort but we need to support each other in embracing it. When we learn how to embrace it and be courageous is when we will start doing better! We will start creating better policies, creating healthier systems, create systemic change that the world will see as a model for justice.”

“You can choose courage, or you can choose comfort, but you can’t choose them both.” –Brené Brown
December 2019: Ombudsmen staff participated in a strategic planning discussion

• “Realty Check”: Recognize and name barriers to obtaining the vision of the program.
  • Need for intentional focus on serving persons of diverse communities.
  • Need to define staff training needs, build trust, and establish safe deliberate staff discussion forums

• Established Equity & Inclusion Committee
• We achieve equity when every person in a community has what they need to reach their full potential and by helping to increase their social, economic and political assets. We will work with others to take a systemic approach to promote the physical, mental, social and economic well-being for people of all ages across all ethnicities and culture.

• To have access to various supports and assistance on specific needs/abilities, and identify/eliminate barriers to create opportunities for all to achieve their fullest potential free from prejudice, discrimination and systemic inequities.
• How to be an Anti-racist by Ibrahim X. Kendi, 2021 - 2022

  - The book is organized into chapters that examine a different theme through a racial lens. Themes include: "dueling consciousness", "power", "biology", "ethnicity", "body", "culture", "behavior", "color", "white", "black", "class", "space", "gender", and "sexuality".

  - Kendi argues that the opposite of racist is anti-racist rather than simply non-racist, and that there is no middle ground in the struggle against racism; one is either actively confronting racial inequality or allowing it to exist through action or inaction.

• A Good Time for the Truth edited by Sun Yun Shin, 2022 – 2023

  - Sixteen of Minnesota's best writers provide a range of perspectives on what it is like to live as a person of color in one of the whitest states in the nation. Minnesota communities struggle with some of the nation's worst racial disparities. The authors confront and consider the realities that lie beneath the numbers.

  • “The Past is Alive Within Us: The US – Dakota Conflict” This PBS documentary examines one of the most difficult chapters of Minnesota’s history: the state’s involvement in the U.S.-Dakota Conflict as the Civil War was simultaneously raging. President Abraham Lincoln signed the order for the execution of 38 Santee Sioux Indians in response the U.S.-Dakota War of 1862.
  • "The surrendered Dakota warriors were held until military trials took place in November 1862. Of the 498 trials, 300 were sentenced to death, though the president commuted all but 38.

Inclusion starts with I
DIVERSITY, EQUITY, INCLUSION, AND ACCESSIBILITY (DEIA)
• All people have the right to access health and social care that treats them with dignity and respect. This means it is essential for all providers to consider how to promote equality and diversity in a care home.

• Whether it be race, religion or beliefs, or sexual orientation, each person deserves to have their identity and individual needs recognized. Without this, quality healthcare cannot be provided.

Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Assessment (DEIA)
Self-Assessment for Long-Term Care Ombudsman Programs

Older adults of historically marginalized communities (those that have been excluded from the “dominant social, economic, educational, and/or cultural life”) often come into long-term services after experiencing a lifetime of barriers due to discrimination. The U.S. Census estimates that more than half of Americans will belong to a minority group by 2044, so the need for inclusive, culturally aware, and trauma-informed services will continue to increase.

Diversity, equity, inclusion, and accessibility (DEIA) are essential elements for creating a foundation that ensures fair treatment and full participation of all individuals, especially those that have been underrepresented and marginalized.

This self-assessment checklist is designed to introduce DEIA terminology to Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program (LTCOP) operations and activities; provide a starting point for program management, advocacy, and outreach with a DEIA lens; and assist LTCOPs in identifying areas for growth in ensuring equitable and inclusive services. This is an introduction, not a comprehensive list of considerations when recruiting, hiring, and supporting staff and volunteers; serving residents; conducting systems advocacy; providing consumer education; and other program activities.

Definitions

- Diversity: The practice of including the many communities, identities, races, ethnicities, backgrounds, abilities, cultures, and beliefs of the American people, including underserved communities.
- Equity: The consistent and systemic fair, just, and impartial treatment of all individuals, including individuals who belong to underserved communities that have been denied such treatment.
- Inclusion: The recognition, appreciation, and use of the talents and skills of employees of all backgrounds.
- Accessibility: The design, construction, development, and maintenance of facilities, information and communication technology, programs, and services so that all people, including people with disabilities, can fully and independently use them.
DEIA SELF-ASSESSMENT

The self-assessment includes program considerations in three categories: policies and practices; inclusion, representation, and accessibility; and training and support. Review the following statements and select the response that most closely reflects your program’s status (Yes, No, Unsure).

Use the blank section for notes about your initial thoughts regarding areas of difficulty, what you have done in each category, and/or plans for improvement. For some of the broader statements, you may have multiple answers and need notes on specific action steps. For example, you may have non-discrimination policies that apply to hiring staff but may not have similar policies for recruiting and hiring volunteers.

NEXT STEPS

There is no “right” or “wrong” way to use this self-assessment, as there are many ways you can move forward after completing this tool.

For example, after completing the self-assessment, you could choose one section to analyze further. When analyzing a section, you could work with your program to develop a plan to bring each statement that is currently “no” or “unsure” to “yes” and/or you could identify areas where additional expertise, discussion, and/or training is needed to move forward.

This is not a comprehensive list of considerations, but a starting point for continuous improvement. For examples from other programs or requests for technical assistance, please contact NORC, ombudcenter@theconsumervoice.org.

RESOURCES

- Older Adults’ Equity Collaborative | ACL Administration for Community Living
  The Older Adults’ Equity Collaborative (OAEc) includes five ACL-funded national Minority Aging Technical Assistance and Resource Centers (TARCs) that each focus on serving a unique community. Together, they work to ensure access and equity across aging services programs by providing technical assistance (TA) to the aging services network.

- Diversity and Cultural Competency | ACL Administration for Community Living
  Information and resources from ACL to help increase access to and improve programs for our diverse American population.

- Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 Part B4 Final Rule Fact Sheet
  Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 prohibits discrimination on the basis of disability in programs and activities that receive Federal financial assistance, including the Long-Term Care Ombudsman program. The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Office for Civil Rights (OCR) has issued a final rule to advance equity and bolster protections for people with disabilities. The final rule updates, modernizes, clarifies, and strengthens the implementing regulation for Section 504.
